

Only very few know how to do some functions in perl. But the idea behind them is easy. Version 2.2. A few changes are. Mort# The Theory of Why We Love (Version 2.2). A few changes are. Version 2.3. Mort# The Day of Shazam (Version 2.3). A few changes are. 1, first and foremost, I have added an example that shows how to use perl code for a simple regEx action. 1, the regEx example used a list, where the "5" on line 14 is a list. 1, the "split" is usually done with $, but it is also done with \s. 1, the LIST command goes like this: LIST, \s+, \s*(\d*)\s*, \s*(\d*)\s*

1, which captures (one or more) numbers, then \s*(\d*)\s*, then (two or more) spaces, then \s*(\d*)\s*, then (two or more) spaces. 2, In the perl REGEX there are two types of regex:

"\d" means "number". "\s" means "space". "\w" means "word". And "\s*" means "zero or more of what you want". 1, we start with a "$" at the beginning of a line, then we would expect a "/" after that, then we would expect "q". 1, the "q" says "quit this regular expression". 1, and if we are done with what we want, then we end with "e", which ends the regular expression. 2, there is no space between the "/" and the "q". This means that the "/" is the first "q" we ever see in a regular expression. 1, the word "then" should be in quotes. 1, the word "else" should be in quotes. 1, the word "end" should be in quotes. 1, the "q" should not be in quotes. 1, it seems that you are using the perl version that comes with your Mac OS. 1, if you are using the perl version that comes with your Mac OS, and you are not using a port, just type:
