Cron Jobs - PDF Creation - Add Time Trigger - License: Demo Price: $30.00 File Size: 2,982 KB Date Added: 12/20/2005 Price: Free File Size: 622 KB Date Added: 12/20/2005 What is a Cron Job? Cron Jobs are jobs which are scheduled by an operating system. We can set our own time and date for our jobs. This is achieved by using the command line to run the job. Our jobs will run according to the time set by us, our jobs can be triggered by us using a time trigger. This tool helps in setuping your own time trigger for your job. If you are not familiar with using the command line, then this is very user friendly. Adobe Photoshop is an image manipulation program that has become an indispensable tool for the desktop computer. Photoshop allows users to do many of the same things as in Illustrator or Corel Painter. You can draw, create graphics, and edit images. From Photoshop on your Mac OS X System you can export a PDF file of your work. This will let you print it or do other things with it later. A special option is the ability to timestamp PDF documents with a time stamp, so that when you check your PDF documents, the timestamps will help you recall the date and time when you created them. This is perfect for anyone who creates lots of files in Photoshop and then have to sift through them to find the ones you created the day before, or the ones from a month ago. Timestamps are added automatically to any document if you choose "Export as PDF with timestamps" in the print options, if you choose "timestamp all the pages" all pages will be timestamped. This is a great way to help you remember when you created something, and it is a must for use with Adobe Photoshop. You can also use this tool to start another application automatically or at a certain time. This is perfect for creating new applications, or for those of us who
