A project built by Coffee Talk Studio from a short "game jam" competition by a trio of developers... Like This : Need relaxing lo-fi chill beats from Coffee Talk to accompany your warm drink while you work or study? We got you covered! Also Unlike This : Coffee Talk is an unfinished indie game that was built during a game jam. It features a story, voiced dialogue, and music composed by Indonesian composer Andrew Jeremy. The story is about a coffee shop owner who's his life is full of stress. He's missing his boyfriend, has a loan and a large debt bill and his business is failing. His only saving grace is he has a baby girl. Features : Scripted cutscenes and voice-overs. Story driven gameplay with unique settings and puzzles. Character Customization and Character Traits. Hire up to 3 of your customers and customize them with clothing and other stuff. Game length : The game is about 35 minutes. Audio : The game contains 20 original tracks, composed by Indonesian composer Andrew Jeremy. To reduce load time, the game uses an offline music streaming technology called AMSPS. You won't see the same "loading" animation when playing the game. Note : Coffee Talk is an unfinished indie game that was built during a game jam. It contains a prototype version of a map editor. This means that the game is not fully playable and is not tested to ensure that it works for an infinite amount of time. At the end of the game, you will be given the option to see a post-end credits screen with the developer's contact details. You can contact the developer for support, bug fixes and other technical information and suggest improvements for the game. Game Jam : The game was made as a collaborative project by a group of developers called "Coffee Talk Studio".Q: How to make line-height not to affect the second line of paragraph? Mondealy: Day One Crack + Download

Set in the late 1990's, this visual novel tells a story of four high school girls who meet by chance, and the drama that ensues. Through their stories, you will meet more than 25 unique characters, all with their own backstories. A major and minor storyline plays out across six acts from the main character's perspective. You can choose any of the girls, and interact with all of them. Using "social deduction" skills, you will uncover details about each of them to determine how the story will end, and who will win. About the Characters: Elsie Lovelock is a happy, outgoing girl who likes to have fun. She is confident, but makes poor decisions. She is attractive, and has an independent and rebellious streak. Kira Buckland is a fan of the Japanese high school stories she's seen, and wants to be the "cool" person. She is very confident and self-assured, and is very cute. She is supportive to those around her, but is quite bossy. She can be quite demanding, and doesn't hesitate to get what she wants. Kayli Mills is the school troublemaker. She is a clown, who enjoys attention. She has a pixie cut, is very shy, and is constantly looking to see what's wrong. She doesn't like herself, and often takes her anger out on others. Anneli Mills is the quiet, sweet girl. She's usually the person others love to hate. She is the shy and quiet outcast who finds solace in the people around her. She can be quite sarcastic and straightforward, but is also very sensitive. Aim the darts of social deduction at the enemy girls and discover their secrets in order to win! to Thee Chapter 8: The Final Cut The key to dodging a blow in a fight is to duck with gravity The gas cloud writhed around a final loop, dragging through the corridors like an oversized snake. The twisted ribbons and coils of gas overtook the partition wall creating a massive vortex. From the whirlpool emerged a five foot high sleet of red liquid like a gushing fountain. It slid down the wall, and carried Jess to her doom. As a giant storm of snow dripped in her face and choked her, her lungs expanded, as if in her terror she'd taken a plunge, her body filled with pure liquid nitrogen. Moments later, she died. Her last thought was this? I'm going to freeze to death and I have nothing to wear in this fucking camping costume! As she drowned in frigid water, the only feeling Jess could feel, was a prickling sensation on her neck. The night was dark, and the strange popping noises echoing from the nearby dorms was easily drowned out by the soundtrack to a Schwarzenegger movie. However, a noise can still be heard. "Ow ow ow fuck I'm gonna die", Jess could hear the agonized breaths of a person under severe pain. "I'm gonna die". "Ooohoohhh help meeee", she screamed. Finally, her eyes closed. The fifth grade girl was drifting off into a coffin before the most painful, career making job of her life. "Jess no!" A voice cried out, clawing Jess from her vaguely, comatose state. "Hey moron you wake up or you're dead!" The voice was chillingly calm and distinct for having been heard through the thick ice. "Jess?" a voice said; low and concerned. It was Martha as she slid down the ice steps to the snow below. "Yeah, I hear you, but I got a lot of stuff to say." The voice was now filled with a childish fear as though Jess was some sort of Great White Shark or poisonous spider monkey. Nervous, and a bit cowardly, the voice trailed off. Martha had no more to say. By the time the squad finally made it back to the dorm, they found the only member of their graduating class alive,

-- THE REVELATION -- You are Diotima. You are not normal. You are a she, and you are a he, and things have happened. You are a gift to this world. This time, you must face the truth. - Features - First Person Horror : Dressing Gowns are here! On the same level as Stranger Things, Dressing Gowns is a First Person Horror game taking place in a small secluded town, in a house where a little girl went missing. The player must explore the main house and the small one room house to find clues. A room by room story about the disappearance of a little girl is told and at the end of the game the mystery is uncovered. The story is told through text with a strong graphical element. Music : The soundtrack is a mixture of classic horror, synthpop, and electronic music. The music has a horror theme and is highly atmospheric. Complex Creepypastas : Secrets and puzzles that are a perfect balance between puzzles and experiences. The Code : A first of its kind game. The truth is written on a code, hidden in the game. It was designed and written in a manner that the code is discoverable but the player can't understand its exact meaning. It is up to the player to be able to interpret it. Slow-Jumps : Jumping through the environment when there is something to discover. Jumping in and out of places, there is a lot of content. Dark, atmospheric Horror : Very scary and almost unbearable atmosphere, with darkness and occasional sounds of horror/creepy. Strong graphical elements make it even more scary. - Dressing Gowns - In Dressing Gowns you enter a small town from a train. You walk up a street and notice that the town looks strange. The scenery is dark. On the main square, you see a fountain. You are at the school gate. You know the streets. In the meantime, you have entered a house, but you don't know how. You enter and see a room, and immediately you enter the game. It is night. There are six hours of gameplay. - Introduction - Dressing Gowns is an indie game that mixes two genres: Horror and a Mystery. As
