RPG Maker MV - Medieval: Knights Templar is the official sequel of the 2nd oldest MMORPG "MMORPG: Time Travelling Warriors" that has been released for several years. In this pack, there are two unique AI "Compatible AI Mode" and "Non-Compatible AI Mode". The compatibility is determined by the game's combination of RPG Maker MV - Medieval: Knights Templar and the original MMORPG's AI. - AI that includes "Compatible AI Mode": Incompatible AI will be activated automatically. - AI that includes "Non-Compatible AI Mode": Trainer is optional (only available in certain scenarios). This game is a side story of MMORPG "Time Travelling Warriors" and is completely different from the original. This game has not appeared in any form in any other MMORPG. - In-game map of MMORPG Time Travelling Warriors - In-game character class portraits - Rental system (Rental period included for certain items, such as Experience Spheres) - House system - NPC system - Item system - Ragdoll system (A NPC can be dumped to the ground as they die) - Prank system - Effects system - Change system (You can freely change various properties of your character) - Crafting system (You can make various items that can be used as item equipment) - Home base system - Recruit system - Alliance/Battle system - Guild system - Embark system (You can embark on a group) - Damage system (Multiple attacks in one attack) "RPG Maker MV - Medieval: Knights Templar" is produced based on the RPG Maker MV engine. This game uses a different GUI with the MMORPG "Time Travelling Warriors" Due to the latest policy of Steam, I was forced to convert my Steam account to a new one. I needed a change in SteamID and new Steam password to be able to reconnect to my Steam account and download games from the Steam Store. This new Steam account will be available by the same email id to all games published by Frogster. I will keep this new Steam account for 3 years. That means that the password will be valid for 3 years. If you have any question regarding my new Steam account, feel free to contact me here: jalabert@gmx.com I apologize for any inconvenience. V.R.G. [March-2022]

The fallen angel. As a mysterious thing, it attacks people to get their power and control them. Those who hate it are the Villagers. THE CAST -A villager -An angel -A demon "Yamafuda!" is a roguelike game that uses the board game style card game "Maze Runner". No matter how many monsters and cards they have, the card game is not over yet. You can also transfer cards while in play. You can play it with a party of up to 5 people. WHAT IS ROGUELIKE? -You are isolated from the world. -You create your own environment. -You have to fight against monsters. -The world is made from maps and cards, not pixels. -It has a randomly generated map and a randomly generated card. CREATE YOUR SELF -Climb the mountain. -Explore the world. -Fight monsters with the power of your mind. HOW TO PLAY? -Assemble cards with different colors -Fight monsters with different attributes -Heal when in trouble -Recruit monsters to your deck -Get your card back when you're out of health -Change your deck as you use cards "-It's fine if you die." CHERISH LIFE -Purchase items to get powerful items and upgrade your gears. -Fight the monsters that appear while climbing the mountain. -Use items to get a boost in your battles. "What the hell!? You have to heal yourself! Are you kidding me!" "I guess you're a natural? You can do this?" Can't heal while you're hurt? Death is inevitable. We couldn't risk our lives for a while. Your enemy might be invading or attacking your village. Things are not looking good. The monster is so strong. It's over! TREASURE TROVE -Get items that can help you in the battle. -Use them in the battle. "Fight! Fight!" Buy the items and fight until the end. It's fine if you die. It doesn't matter if you die. It's ok to die. I can get more power in the next round. "Save that power. I'll use it in the next round." We can't win with that gear. We can't win with that I can't help myself, I love the time of year when the weather is cold enough to wear a cape. One of my favorite days to wear a cape is Valentine's Day. (Yes, I can make an excuse for my affection of the holiday.) I have always considered myself an inclusive person. I consider myself fortunate to have met the two men who have had a huge impact in my life. My husband has been a wonderful step father to my step children and they have accepted him and love him as part of their family. When I introduced him to my children he was instantly like a brother to them and their relationship grew as quickly as their ages grew. My second and most recent husband was not able to accept or understand me and the very act of being married to me. (Yes, I had thought about telling him that I had cheated on him before we were married and the only reason I had married him was to show him that I would never cheat on him. Well, he believed that and still believes that.) Anyway, I married my current husband who was and still is one of the most kind hearted and self sacrificing men I have ever known. He is so loving and generous it is almost too much to take and I would like to go on and on with how wonderful and perfect he is. I will try to write about him later as I didn't want to drown you in praise. The reason I bring this up is because I was running and thinking about what a fantastic day of love was going to be. When I ran into wanted a divorce. She'd first put it into words at the home of a boss whose wife was in the hospital. "I do want a divorce," Ann's friend in management had said, "and I think a long one." She told Ann that she was separating from her husband of over thirty-two years, a quality-consulting engineer. She had told her husband—this central manager in that firm—that she did not want to live with him anymore. How would he react to this news? He had been diagnosed with heart trouble, and he spent most of his days in the hospital. A woman of Ann's age, Ann realized, had to have a new life, even if it meant a divorce at some point. As for husband, he didn't react at first. He showed up that afternoon to find his wife at Ann's house, and he said that he was choosing to not react. He seemed to assume that Ann was going to pick up the pieces and lie down for a while. As their friend in management saw it: a long divorce lasting about four years would take care of this, plus most of his heart trouble. He would be able to make a long recovery. He would need it. The two friends in management, in managing this, talked. And Ann was the one to speak. She talked her husband into part of a divorce. — If you think about the business of couples, there are a lot of ways to get divorced. Sometimes a man can cut off his wife entirely. Or he can pull the plug on the home computer. Or he can simply file for divorce. If he's good at it, he can even leave the kid behind. All of these ways prevent the kid from needing the parent, going further toward the final divorce. But mostly, if you want a divorce or two, the subject always comes back to a man wanting to cut his wife out of his life. Or his life out of hers. Or his relationship to the woman he loves and still wants to spend time with. Ann got the message quickly enough. She worried that her husband might never come around, and she wanted to make sure she made the choice to fully divorce him, not get stuck with a weak half-divorce for four or five years. So she and her husband made all the necessary wedding-type statements together in front of family and friends to confirm that they were really leaving. She went to the courthouse. He chose the legal
