
The BIGGEST 80s Disco Dance Music (Vol 1-32)

being in the north east of england myself i know that they certainly have their place! however, in london they are far less prevalent. if you take a look at vj/street performers in london like hot chip, dusky, a-trak, steve aoki, flying lotus, hot boyz, fickle, krept & konan, tiga etc, you will see that most of them don't even bother with the 80s styles of music. i feel more of a connection with the uk house community. more of a north east flavour and a london flavour - hence the names and the labels (house of chillax, faltydl, teeq, output etc). i love the 80s music! it came around in a super nova of creativity, invention and energy. i remember going through a number of phases: funk, disco, lounge, synth pop, early 90s dub, synth-pop, ebm, early uk rave, digital music, techno, electro, jungle, 2-step, electro house, big room, tech house, electro house, electro/techno, industrial, early hiphop, grime, nu-disco and disco house and each one of them has influenced me in some way or another. i am proud of the fact that i am a techno-disco-pop-house-soul-funk-jazz-electro-breakbeat motherfucker with a fairly decent pop side. yes! the album was produced by walter gibbons and cut at sunset sound in los angeles. this was my first album, and i just know i will be successful, like mr gibbons says. i have two songs on the album that are really important to me, "runaway" and "don't wanna live & die". the first one is a new, up tempo, funky song that you can dance to. "don't wanna live & die" is a slow ballad that really shows my soul. the best in real? that's like asking the chicken or egg if it's the best or the chicken? if you need an example of your genre and are undecided on what kind of a 'house' you want then this album is for you. for the last year or so i have been playing this album so much that the pad/soft-claps have fallen off.

the tr-606 was part of the group that inspired the 808 with a delay that really launched bass, and the tr-606 sometimes gets a bad rap for being old-school and not very viable now. i really love it, and its simplicity and power. it's basically a mono synth, so no key tracking, just a straight amp inside the synth. and there's a really weird thing about it. when i turn it on, it does a click, and then the initial part of the tune will be like for 1/2 a second or so. i have to turn the knob back to zero to reset it, and then it runs smooth. but i still get some of the clicks with the tune, so its like its getting ready to work. all synthesizers do this because it's mechanical and it sounds perfect, but it always freaks me out. also, you can use the other two controls on the side, the high pass filter and the low pass filter, to change the pitch of the filter of the synth. it sounds nice and i dont have too many problems with it because i get used to it. whether you like this era or not, almost everybody remembers these songs, their choruses, their names and a handful of phrases, miaows, and outros. if you play disco like house, you can recreate this instantly. paul mccartney is overrated chords 90s alternative 80s pop. the music was a combination of his distinctive style mixed with synthesizers and techno beats, which gave it a unique sound that was both catchy and dark.

the time is different in the chorus. the time in the chorus is also different in different places. used to be a lot of time in the chorus in the 80s in the first time. but now it changed. the chord progression is the same for the verses, that are the same as the chorus too except the way it is played. my suggestion is to speed up the music and play this chord progression a couple of times. you can play this chord progression and there are other ones. i love listening to this song, check it out. 5ec8ef588b
